

PRIVATE EDUCATION LOAN APPLICANT SELF-CERTIFICATION FORM INFORMATION

Beginning February 14, 2010, schools are required to provide the “Private Education Loan Applicant Self-Certification” form, and the information needed to complete the form, to an enrolled or admitted applicant (or to the parent applicant of an enrolled or admitted student) upon the applicant's request. Thomas Aquinas College posts a copy of the “Private Education Loan Applicant Self-Certification” form on its website for applicants to download. See pages 3 and 4 of this document for the form.

Alternatively, the applicant may obtain a copy of the “Private Education Loan Applicant Self-Certification” form from the private educational loan lender and submit it to the College for completion or confirmation. The College may also, at its option, provide the information needed to complete the form directly to the private educational lender.

Private education loans include all alternative loans. Individual lenders are implementing their own procedures to comply with this new regulation, so you should contact your lender directly if you have specific questions about the process for submitting this form.

Ultimately, it is your responsibility to make sure the self-certification form is submitted to your lender. If you do not submit a completed and signed self-certification form to your lender, your loan will not be disbursed.

If the financial aid office has not already entered your cost of attendance and estimated financial assistance on the self-certification form, contact the financial aid office at (805) 421-5935 or by e-mail at finaid@ThomasAquinas.edu to receive the correct figures.

Note: When reporting your estimated financial assistance on the self-certification form, do not include the amount of the loan for which you are completing the form.

Federal, State and Other Eligibility for Aid

If you have not yet completed the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) you should do so immediately to determine your eligibility for federal, state and other aid. Thomas Aquinas College may request additional information upon review of your FAFSA.

Private Education Loans should be considered only as a last resort after applying for Federal Loans.

Federal loans have fixed interest rates, cancellation provisions, unemployment and economic deferment provisions, as well as consolidation options that are not available to the private loan borrower.

Students who meet all the federal requirements to receive federal aid may be eligible for Federal Direct Student Loans in the amounts listed below:
